Questions 31-35!

Christian education is different from secular education. This mission and purpose of Christian education are not simply training for social adaptation, etiquette, and technique but for teaching the basics of faith and transmitting it to the next generation until Jesus comes again. Therefore, it is not appropriate for Korean churches to diminish or even disregard the role of Christian doctrine by saying such teaching is an old-fashioned approach no longer worthy of use. Rather, they need to recognize the significance of Christian faith being taught through the careful study of the doctrines of the New Testament church. Christian educators must approach such teaching with humility, respecting the fact that God is the Author of our faith.

First, ministers and teachers need to acknowledge the importance of doctrinal education. After that, it is necessary for them to teach the truth only after much reflection and prayer. The reason for this should be obvious: time spent in preparation should enable them to assess the problems adolescent students face regarding their faith and, thus, offer solutions to those struggles. Ministers and teacher with well-established ideas about faith and practice will be more likely to listen and learn how to face the seductive world controlled by Satan.

Second, when teaching doctrines of the faith, ministers and teachers should pay attention to following a logical order and sequence and deal with core subject first. They must study and consider deeply the doctrines to be taught, as well as the needs of the learners, and then select their teaching priorities. Many young people are confused about their faith because of poor teaching of the elementals of the faith.

The recovery of doctrinal education is the best way to clear out this confusion and help them build a strong faith so that they will have a fait worth passing on to the next generation.

Questions 36-40!

The creation motif in the Johannine Prologue has a similarity with the Genesis creation amount. What we should know in the creation work of Genesis is that God's divine word and His deeds go together. That is, the spoken word of God is accomplished directly. In light of this, it is apparent that the Logos was the Co-Creator with God. In John, the Logos, or the Living Word, makes the will of God come into existence.

Genesis reveals the origin of the human being and of the entire universe. According to the Genesis creation account, human beings were created in the image of God to have a good relationship with God and to govern His world. Man was created with what might be described as a creation-image. However, because of the fall, he needed something to enable him to recover the image of God: the redemptive-image. The redemptive story is in the Johannine Prologue. The creation motif in the Johannine Prologue has continuity with Genesis; and, in John, we can see the interconnection between the pre-existence of the Logos and the incarnated Logos, which gives new life to His people. When man receives the true light in his mind, the darkness flees away. That is possible through the power of the Holy Spirit. The new creation by Jesus Christ is to recover the image of God in the first creation so that human beings can have right relationship with God once more. Thus, the Gospel of John describes how God's people are recovered as the new creation.

- 36. What is the theme of this article?
 - a. Jesus as the agent of creation and re-creation in the Bible
 - b. Jesus as the logos
 - c. Creation in the Prologue of John
 - d. John's view of divinity of Jesus
- 37. How did the author connect the image of God in both creation accounts?
 - a. Through use of creation and re-creation
 - b. Through use of creation-image and redemptive creation
 - c. Both A and B
 - d. Neither A and B

- 38. What made the second image necessary?
 - a. The first image was flawed
 - b. The first image wan inadequate
 - c. The first image was imperfect
 - d. The first image was marred by man
- 39. What should we recognize about God's work in creation?
 - a. God is sovereign
 - b. God's word and deeds go together
 - c. God's work has incomplete
 - d. God can do whatever He wants
- 40. According to the author, what does Genesis reveal?
 - a. The origin of the human being and the animal kingdom
 - b. The origin of the human being and all plant life
 - c. The origin of the human being and his dominion
 - d. The origin of the human being and the universe
